Russian Wave Still Sweeps Teutons Back

Brusiloff Captures Over 172,000 Men in 13 Days—Much Hand to Hand Fighting

PETROGRAD, June 22.—An official statement, issued here, runs: Desperate fighting continues in the region north of Gadonitch, and the village of Gruziatyn has changed hands several times. Yesterday afternoon, we entered the city and captured 11 officers, 400 men and 6 machine guns, but gusts of German artillery fire compelled us to evacuate the town again. With furious persistence, the Germans operating in the region of Verontchine, to the northwest of Keselin, under cover of gusts of heavy artillery fire both from light and heavy guns, made repeated attacks against our young regiments. Our troops, by impetuous attacks, put the Germans to flight, taking nine machine guns and a number of prisoners from various regiments. In the region of Rajniesto, on the Stokhod river, to the northeast of Verontchine, the enemy attacked in mass formation. The engagement became a hand to hand struggle, in which the Germans, unable to sustain our heavy pressure, took flight, leaving in our hands a number of wounded prisoners not yet counted. Desperate fighting is still in progress in the region of the Kiselin and to the south. On the extreme left wing, we are pursuing the enemy who have crossed the Sereth river. The total number of prisoners taken by General Brusiloff from June 3 to June 15 inclusive, amounted to 3,350 officers and 169,134 men. We also captured 198 guns, 550 machine guns, 189 bomb throwers, 117 artillery limbers, 34 searchlights and a large quantity of other war material.

On the Dvina, the German artillery violently bombarded our positions. On the northern sector, the enemy made a strong attack, but was repulsed. On the southern sector, the enemy made a strong attack, but was repulsed. On the southern sector, the enemy made a strong attack, but was repulsed.

ITALIANS CAPTURE STRONG POSITION

ROME, June 22.—An official announcement states that between the Adige and the Astico valleys artillery actions have occurred. At the head of the Posina Valley, detachments of our Alpine troops, in the midst of a heavy storm, captured a strong position to the southwest of Monte Marce. Engagements on the western slopes of Monte Cegno resulted in favour of our infantry. To the southwest of Asiago, the enemy attempted three successive surprise attacks against our positions on Monte Mag-nab Oechi, but all were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. North of the Frezuela Valley, we continued a fault advance across rough ground, repulsed by the stubborn resistance of the enemy who drove us back by counter-attacks. Hostile aircraft dropped bombs on our lines, causing communication, wounding a few persons and causing some slight damage. Squadrons of our aeroplanes, consisting of 34 machines, bombarded an camp at Pergine, at the Sugana Valley.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT TO LEAVE CANADA THIS FALL

OTTAWA, June 22.—The evening "Free Press" says that his Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, will close his term as Governor of Canada and will leave here for England this autumn, if present intentions are carried out. It is also understood that he will be succeeded by someone other than the Prince of Teck.

BELGIAN FRONT ACTIVE

PARIS, June 22.—A Belgian communication received here from official sources states that artillery duels have occurred at diverse points, especially to the north of Dixmude.

MR. AND MRS. SOAMES TO PRESENT PLAY

In Aid of Red Cross Society

As a consequence of the success achieved by Mr. and Mrs. Soames, last March, when they played "The Importance of Being Earnest" before a crowded house, at the Kelowna Opera House, and handed, as a result, a handsome sum to the Red Cross Society, they have been requested to repeat the play once again. As a result of this persuasion, which has been put forward by a number of local people, they have consented to produce Oscar Wilde's famous play again, on Thursday next, June 29, and, as briefly hinted in the "Courier" of last week, all arrangements have now been made.

At the play given last March, the audience were kept in an almost continual scream of laughter, but in spite of this brilliant success the play's are endeavoring to even improve on that performance and are working hard at frequent rehearsals, and it is but natural to believe that under the careful and expert tuition and training of Mr. and Mrs. Soames the play will prove even more popular than before, so that those who witnessed the production last time can safely reserve next Thursday evening to see the play again, assured of witnessing it in a still higher state of perfection. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Soames always draw a big crowd of admirers at every opportunity, so together with this and the fact that the play is one of such admirable wit and humour there is no doubt whatever but that a large sum will be again earned for the Red Cross Society, for as before, every cent of the net profits will be generously donated to this most worthy cause.

While all of us have lots of calls upon our charity at this time, there is probably no more agreeable way of giving than that so generously provided by Mr. and Mrs. Soames and their company, and no more worthy cause than the Red Cross Society, so it is incumbent upon every one to book seats early and show their appreciation of the double opportunity so kindly offered.

The members of Orchard City Lodge No. 59, I.O.O.F., are holding their annual Decoration Day Service on Sunday, June 25, at the Kelowna cemetery. All members and visiting brothers and sisters of the Order are cordially invited to attend bringing a small bouquet of flowers with them if possible. The Lodge Room will be left at 1.30 p.m. prompt, proceeding direct to the cemetery.

As a result of the flooding of the Elk River one hundred families in Fernie have been rendered homeless.

Nelson is holding a Rose Show on July 5.

THE BOARD OF TRADE FRENCH HOLD TRENCHES

Will Hold Meeting Throughout the Summer Months

The session of the Board of Trade held on Tuesday evening, proved to be one of the quietest held this session. Not only was very little business transacted, but the attendance was very small, those present being Mayor Jones, Messrs. N. Gregory, W. Haug, R. B. Kerr, J. Leathley, B. McDonald, H. F. Rees, C. Rogerson, T. S. Ruffell and Secretary McTavish. In the absence of the president, Mr. W. G. Benson, the chair was occupied by Mr. Rees.

The principal discussions concerned the recent adoption and sudden rejection of the Daylight Saving plan, and the advisability of the Kelowna Board enrolling as a member of the Associated Boards of Trade of British Columbia. The former brought forth very little that had not been said many times over during the recent Daylight controversy, while the latter resulted in a decision being made that the secretary should obtain further information before any decision be taken.

Mr. B. McDonald spoke a number of times in favour of the matter of the free ferry being taken up again with the provincial government, but it was decided that next October would probably prove a more opportune time with the government.

Several speakers deplored the apparent falling off of interest of members of the Board, as proved by the poor attendance.

A proposal that the Board should follow its usual custom and suspend meetings during the summer months was defeated, and it was decided that meetings should be held monthly as usual.

All German Attacks Fail on Le Mort Homme

PARIS, June 22.—On both sides of the Meuse river, in the region of Verdun, the Germans again launched strong attacks against the French positions, but were everywhere repulsed by the French artillery. Except for intermittent bombardments the day was comparatively quiet on other parts of the French front.

An official bulletin issued here, last night, states that on the left bank of the Meuse the Germans commenced an attack against the new trenches conquered by us from them on June 15, on the slopes south of Le Mort Homme. Their attack was completely repulsed by our fire. On the right bank, after a violent bombardment by big shells in the region of Hill 320, Chapitre Wod and Fumin-le-Chenois, the Germans attacked our positions to the west and south of Fort Vaux. Our curtains of fire and our machine guns twice broke the assaults of the enemy who suffered heavy losses.

EXPLODED LORRIES

Quiet Day on British Front

LONDON, June 22.—An official dispatch issued here states that yesterday was devoid of any important incident. The day passed quietly on most parts of the front. Intermittent shelling occurred near Hebuterne, the Souchez Valley and Prelinhain, while mining continued briskly near Neuville, St. Vaast and the Loos salient. Near La Basse, five of the enemy's ammunition lorries came under our fire. One of them was hit with the result that all of them exploded.

MARKET REPORT

CALGARY

June 17.—The market is more than supplied with rhubarb, that is counting stocks here and rolling. It was thought that the brokers handling the B. C. product would have cleaned up next week to some extent at fairly good prices, but a car from the Okanagan will glut the market the first of the week.

The rhubarb deal this year has not been as satisfactory as it might have been. Had the Nash houses and the independents split cars at principle centres all the jobbers would have cleaned up a fair profit and likewise the grower, but as the Dominion Brokers had the B. C. deal the Nashes decided to bring in American rhubarb and handle this exclusively, which they did. Cars of B. C. rhubarb were sent to storage, while cars from across the line were brought in.

Prevailing wholesale prices of rhubarb are from 85c to $1.00. At retail it is selling at as low as 10 lbs. for 15 cents. The high price of sugar of course, is working against the consumption of rhubarb.

Strawberries—A car from Portland rolled in here this week and was jobbed off at $3.75. B. C. Straws in quarts are selling, wholesale at $4.00 and pints at from $3.00 to $3.50. The B. C. Berries which have so far arrived have been, of course, small shipments. The market has been fairly well supplied with strawberries, but more will go into consumption, there is not a doubt and B. C. growers need have no fear on that score.

Cherries—Bings are selling at from $2.50 to $2.75, and Royal Annes at from $2.00 to $2.25, all Washington stock.

Prevailing retail prices follow: Strawberries, pints, 15c; quarts, 17½c; Calif. plums, lb., 20c; bskt., $1.00; apricots, Calif., lb., 20c; bskt., 75c; peaches and pears, Calif., per doz., 40c; Yellow Newtons and Winesaps, lb., 6c; box, $2.15; cooking, 6 lbs., 25c; box, $1.65; hothouse tomatoes, lb., 23c to 35c; Cantaloupes, Mission Bell, each, 30c; gooseberries, 12½c box; crate, 24 pts., $2.60; Asparagus, lb., 35c; Head lettuce, each, 10c; cherries, lb., 40c; rhubarb, lb., 1½c to 2½c; box, $1.00; cucumbers, each, 20c.

If it would be well for the individual shippers to ship to the smaller towns only, for with the carlot shippers shipping to the larger centres, two or three small consignments can easily demoralize the market.

General Information about Train Connections in Western Canada

There is but very little change in the general times at which trains connect on the branch lines from last year, but given below is a short statement in regard to connections which will no doubt interest a large number of growers:

Edmonton Line

There is a night and morning train from Calgary, touching at all the points between these two stations. No. 2 and No. 14 are the two trains on which fruit should be shipped to catch either the morning or the night train. Fruit may be shipped on No. 4 to connect at Calgary at 6.30 p.m. with the Red Deer local.

Calgary, Macleod and Lethbridge

There is a morning train to Macleod and Lethbridge. Fruit to catch these trains should be shipped on No. 2. The night train to Lethbridge leaves at 18.55, and the fruit to catch this train should be shipped on No. 4. This train goes via Macleod, while the morning train goes by way of Carmangay as well as by way of High River. Fruit shipped on No. 14 will catch the midnight train to Macleod which only stops at Okotoks, Aldersyde, High River, Nanton and Claresholm.

DOUKHOBORS TO ENTER FRUIT BUSINESS

The following clipping from the Saskatoon Star, will be read with interest:

"Peter. Veregin, head of the Doukhobor community, has purchased a site for a wholesale fruit warehouse from Dr. Patrick, and plans for the new building are now being prepared. The Doukhobor community will make Yorkton its Saskatchewan distributing point for the products of their extensive fruit ranches located near Brilliant, B.C."

SOFT FRUIT CROPS OF NORTHWEST WILL BE LESS THAN LAST YEAR

From all reports received at the present time, and after personal investigation, it is apparent that the soft fruit crops in Washington and Oregon will be 70 per cent. less than last season. This is due to winter injury and frosts in the early spring, and in some cases during the past few weeks. From all quarters it is expected that fewer American berries than usual will find their way into this territory.

FRENCH PLANES BUSY—SHELL MILITARY STATIONS

PARIS, June 22.—A report issued by the Aviation Department states that on the nights of June 20 and June 21, one of our bombing groups dropped 210 shells on the station at Arnville and 276 shells on the military establishments in the neighbourhood of Metz station.

REV. THOS. GREENE APPOINTED ARCHDEACON

The Bishop of Kootenay made the announcement to the Diocesan Synod at Nelson, which opened yesterday, that he had formed the new Archdeaconry of Okanagan, and that he had appointed the Rev. Thomas Greene, Rector of St. Michael's and All Angels', Kelowna, to be the new Archdeacon.

FIRE BRIGADE HOLD AN EXCITING CONTEST

Companies Compete in Work with Hose

An exciting contest took place on Tuesday evening between the two companies of the Fire Brigade. The contest consisted of making and breaking two lengths of hose to the V and one length from the V to the hydrant, and included getting water. The time was taken from when the first man left the truck to the time the water came out of the nozzle. The display was an excellent one and was worthy of a larger audience, the teams working together in splendid fashion, which spoke much for their training under Captain Jenkins. As usual, the boys put their all into the competition. In spite of the fact that the eye could distinguish no difference in the speed of the work of the two teams, stop watches showed No. 1 Company to be the winner.

The times taken were as follows: No. 1 Company, making connections, 33 seconds; disconnecting, putting everything back on truck to last man on truck, 33 and two-fifths seconds; total, 66 and two-fifths seconds. No. 2 Company, making connections, 40 seconds; disconnecting, etc., 32½ seconds; total, 72½ seconds.

Each company comprised ten men. The contest took place at the hydrant outside Willits' store on Bernard Avenue. Mayor Jones and Ald. H. H. Millie were among those who witnessed and timed the event.

Norman Pope, of Peachland, was among those who fell in battle during this recent heavy fighting near Ypres. A telegram was received, last week, by his father, Mr. Pope, of Peachland, conveying the sad news. The deceased was one of Peachland's most popular young men. Mrs. R. H. Helmer, Mrs. Hamilton Lang, Mrs. Bywater and Mrs. H. W. Birkett are sisters of the fallen soldier.

Penticton is arranging for an old-time Wild West show on Dominion Day, and an excursion is being run from Kelowna and nearby points.

Milt. Wilson Writes to Fire Brigade Boys

Tells of Trench Life and Its Terrors and How the Wounded are Treated

To the Boys of K.V.F.B., Kelowna, B.C.

Dear Boys,—Being over in England and enabled to send letters which do not have to undergo the ordeal of being marked up by the black pencil of the Censor, I will write you boys a book on the war.

On landing in France you seem to realize, somehow, that there is a war on, and this feeling grows stronger as you approach the war zone, and when you arrive there, you sure know it.

In the towns and cities near the firing lines all business, except the business of war, is at a standstill. Trains arriving with munitions, food-stores and troops are continually arriving. Munitions and foodstuffs are unloaded into immense three-ton motor lorries and are taken to a distributing point close to the firing line. At night each detail transports take their loads from there and often under shell-fire take their loads forward as far as the roads run. From the transports, parties of men called ration parties carry the stuff the rest of the way until they finally reach the boys in the front line trenches. One man, picked for his sure-footedness and level head, has the honor of looking after the rum rations, as the lesser of two evils would be to lose the stores and save the rum than the other way around.

The bringing out of wounded men is carried on much the same way, and I will give you my own experience in this matter. I was wounded by a small piece of shell case from a whizz-bang in the head. As soon as I got into a trench I was bound up with my first aid field dressing, which every man carries sewed in his tunic. Under the care of two men I was zig-zagged back to a dressing station on the road, half an hour's walk from the front line. Here second aid was administered, being a large-sized jolt of rum. Loaded here into a Red Cross motor car we did a spurt of six miles, and as it was Fritz's night for shelling we had a number of shells come unpleasantly close. At this dressing station a toxine is injected to prevent blood-poisoning from shell or rifle wounds and a doctor cuts off a piece or sews up a cut and, rebandages you in proper shape. From here we were again loaded into motors and taken to a clearing station on the railroad to await the departure of a Red Cross train. This clearing station was a small town in itself, and had accommodation for thousands of patients. Cases too bad to be removed are kept here and the remainder are loaded into trains and taken to Rouen, Marseilles or Boulogne. I was sent to Boulogne and, 16 hours after I was hit, I was bathed and clean and in a real bed. In Boulogne some of the cleverest doctors in the army are stationed. X-ray photos are taken to determine the location of the bul-

WEEDS ON CITY LOTS

At the last annual meeting of the Commission of Conservation special stress was laid upon the increasing prevalence of weeds. Earnest pleas were made for action to overcome this detriment to agriculture.

While farming interests are exerting themselves to eliminate this serious handicap, they have just cause to complain of the prevalence of weeds on city lots and subdivided land upon the outskirts of cities and towns. This land, once forming some of the best farms, offers ideal conditions for the growth of weeds, and they flourish in great luxuriance. The owners in many cases are non-residents, and, consequently, do not appreciate the condition of their property.

BOY SCOUTS' COLUMN

Kelowna Troop.

Troop First! Self Last!

(Edited by "Pioneer.")

Orders by command for week ending 1st July, 1916.

Duties: Orderly patrol for week, Curlews; next for duty, Eagles.

There will be no parades during this week, but patrol leaders will keep in touch with the staff, and will make every effort to round up a full attendance for camp. They will also see that each scout is properly equipped.

A list of the things which each scout and patrol must take to camp is now ready for each leader to distribute to each scout in his patrol.

Camp attendance is compulsory; it should not be necessary for us to have to state this, but in view of some of the reports which have come to us, we do not wish there to be any doubt on this point. There are only two reasons which can keep a scout away, and they are sickness, and positive inability to get away from work. In connection with the latter we feel sure that we shall again have the active co-operation of parents and employers. We trust, too, that all friends of the scouts will, wherever possible, put in the way of the boys the chance to earn $2.00 or so in order that they may themselves pay their share of camp expenses. But even if the boy cannot raise the $2.00 himself, we do not feel that we are casting any additional burden on the parents, because we are fairly certain that every boy costs over $6.00 a month to keep in his own home. This $2.00 can also be supplied to the camp in kind; that is in groceries or produce of the same value. As to this see one of the scoutmasters or Troop Leader Keller, who is to be camp quartermaster.

Also, do not let there be any grouching. This is a disease which spreads faster than measles, and one or two grouchers present can spoil the whole camp. Let every scout work together to make this year's outing one never to be forgotten. A small party of leaders and others viewed the proposed site at the mouth of Cedar Creek, which the South Kelowna Land Company are good enough to allow us the use of, on Sunday afternoon last, and it would, indeed, be hard to find a more suitable site.

Patrol Leader Godfrey Groves made a field sketch of it, which will be used in planning the arrangements of tents, etc. Next week we shall give a few particulars of the proposed activities or the ten days. There will be one lay for sports and visitors. We expect this year to try the experiment of a salaried camp cook, and if any parents desire any further information about anything please ask them to consult one of the scout masters.

We regret that it is possible our bugler, Patrol Leader Crowley, may not be able to attend camp this year, so will all scouts who think they could earn the calls volunteer at once, and we shall arrange to have some lessons given to them. We hope P. L. Crowey will be able to get away from his work and come, but in case not, we must "Be Prepared."

The route march which was to be held on Saturday of this week has been postponed, so there will be no parade at all on this day.

The first prize for selling the most tickets for the concert goes to Troop Leader Keller, with $19.25 to his credit; second to Scout Jack Groves, with $16.00, and third to Patrol Leader Calder, with $14.00. Scout Clair Rowcliffe was a close fourth, with $13.50. There are still five scouts who have not completed their returns, with either unsold tickets or nonies.

let and then the next job of removing it comes. I had the ghastly experience of going under chloroform and had a piece of shrapnel removed. Owing to the thickness of my head, or the stuff it is made of, it just drilled the skull and remained imbedded in the bone.
From Bologne we were loaded into Red Cross boats, taken to Dover and then Red Cross trains again. Red Cross motor cars, and finally the hospital, where dressing and rest are the things required to make a fellow fit again.

To describe the feelings when under fire is something that is hard to do.
There is the rifle fire, machine gun, rifle grenade and trench mortar shell, and also the artillery.

Rifle bullets are the easiest to get used to, and although they oftentimes whistle unpleasantly close the fact that you hear them is a sure indication that you are safe from that one.

Machine gun fire no one likes, as the put-a-put-a-put has a sinister sound and if trained in your direction you get under cover quick.

Trench mortar bombs or Minen-werfers, are devilish things. They weigh 40, 60, 80 and up to 185 lbs. each. One of them landing in a trench makes an awful mess, not to mention the work of fixing the trench again.
Their only redeeming feature is that you can seem them coming. They are fired from a mortar into the air at an angle of 45 degrees, and they lob over. The noise of the explosion is enough to scare one to death.

The shells mostly used by the Germans are the whizz-bangs (like our 18-pounders or French 75's), the shrapnel shell and the high explosive shell, called coal boxes or Jack Johnson's.

The whizz-bang, like its name implies; comes whizz-bang! and then it is no use to duck. I have no love for that shell as it was one of them that sent me to "blighty." They will dig a hole in the ground about three feet deep, or penetrate a brick or stone wall. The shrapnel shell is filled with shrapnel bullets and explodes high in the air throwing the projectiles forward and sideways.

These shells are mostly used when men are the objects to be destroyed and the area covered by the bullets is 200 yards by 50 yards. Two feet of earth is sufficient head cover against shrapnel and unless one is in the open they are not to be feared much. The high explosive is the shell that puts the fear of into one.
They are used for demolishing trenches, buildings, guns and dugouts, and they do their work well.
They come with a scream, half shriek and half moan, and one shell will demolish a stone house.

Anyone that says they enjoy being under shell fire is a liar with adjectives attached. The more a man sees of it the more he will be obliged to believe in fatalism, as two men will be standing shoulder to shoulder, one is killed and the other is unharmed.

All of our bunch of Kelowna boys have been in warm corners. During our first trip into the trenches at Wulverton, opposite Messines, the dugouts we were in were bombarded for four hours with high explosive shells. Many were mighty close, but on the whole bombardment there were only 26 casualties.

From Wulverton we went out for a few days' rest and then moved into Ypres. There is not a house or building in the town that is not destroyed, and all civilians are gone.
We live in cellars, and on a bright day, when Fritz's scouting aeroplanes are out, not a living person is seen.
At night thousands of troops pass through the town going and coming from the trenches.

Our work commences about 8.30 at night, and if dark we go in by the road and then overland as it is impossible to be seen. The most dangerous point on our way in is a turning in the road known as "Hell Fire Corner." There are casualties on this corner every night. The work consists of building trenches and forts, machine gun emplacements, and repairing bridges. We generally land back at the billets at 4.30 in the morning. Then comes the minute of all the minutes of the 24 hours—the rum issue.

Jack Mc., Billie P., Bob W. and myself still keep up the old bridge games. Habits learned in the fire hall cannot be broken.

Methtinks that I have pretty near written enough for one time, so will ring up for this time. Good luck to you all.

I.O.G.T. GIVE SOCIAL

Games and Sketch. Help Make Successful Evening

A good attendance of people enjoyed the excellent programme given at the I.O.G.T. "Social" on Tuesday evening, which was unanimously declared to be one of the best ever held.

Part of the entertainment took the form of progressive games at different tables. In this, a prize was to be awarded to the winning lady, but four ladies tied for first place—Mrs.
F. Varney, Mrs. C. F. Armstrong, Miss W. Jones and Miss J. Ritchie.
These ladies, therefore, played an extra game, when Mrs. C. F. Armstrong proved the victor and received a beautiful book. The Booby prize was won by Mrs. A. Ritchie.

A game called "Topics" created lots of fun. Solos and recitations were given at intervals. Miss W. Jones entertained the company with two organ solos, which were greatly appreciated. The entertainment closed with a temperance sketch, entitled, "Caught at Last," in which Sister Mrs. A. Bennett played the sorrowing wife; Sister Mrs. F. Varney played as Mrs. Lashford, the neighbour; Brother T. Pitt, as the temperance worker; Brother W. B. Pearson, as the drunken husband, and Master A.
Bennett, as Sonnie. All parts were well acted.

Refreshments and ice cream were provided during the evening. The affair was presided over by Brother W. B. Pearson, D.G.C.T.

FUTURE OF THE BALTIC

To Russia and Great Britain alike the thorough defeat of Germany and the destruction of her naval ascendency in the Baltic are essential. If these necessary preliminaries are achieved it will then be possible for the entente powers to establish an enduring settlement of the north.
They will probably strengthen Denmark by restoring to her the Duchy of Schleswig, with its large Danish population; they will confirm Denmark in control of the Sound and the Belts, and will place under her military care the neutralized end of the Kiel canal; they will guarantee her independence and will give her such financial aid as will enable her effectively to fulfil her international functions as guardian of the gates of the Baltic.—Nineteenth Century.

FLOODS AND WASH-OUTS CAUSE TROUBLE TO C.P.R.

BANFF, June 21.—On the main line of the C.P.R., between Field and Golden, bridges and culverts are washed out and the Kicking Horse river is overflowing its banks in many places. So serious is the trouble there that main line east bound trains have been ordered diverted at Spence's Bridge and sent east over the Kettle Valley and Crow's Nest line as it is expected the trouble on the latter line will have been taken care of by tonight and westbound trains are being doubled back from Banff to Calgary.

The main line of the Crow's Nest Pass has been blocked by washouts at Sparwood and Michel, while trains to the west are operated with difficulty owing to the flooded condition of the track near Morrissey, and beyond this to Moyie where the tracks are covered for a great distance with several feet of water.

PATRIOTIC SERVICES

Special patriotic services will be held at Benvoulin, Rutland and Glen-more on Sunday next, and an interesting programme has been arranged.
This service is specially for the Sunday schools, but it is expected that there will be a large gathering of parents and children, as well as patriotic citizens.

SUMMER SCHOOL JULY AND AUGUST

Geo. Y. CHOWN REGISTRAR

The Bostonians In "Tipperary Mary"

Famous All-Girl Company Here on Tuesday, June 27 Only

On June 27, the famous Bostonian Girls will present "Tipperary Mary," that musical play which was first presented to the public by the eminent actor, Mr. Chauncey Alcott. In this musical melange are embraced those lyrics of the Emerald Isle—than which there are none sweeter nor better, and as an interesting love story it has sufficient sentiment to end that delectable touch of flavor so typical of Ould Ireland.

Naturally, the dialogue is replete with a great amount of wit and humor to which Miss O'Neill and her colleagues do ample justice. In the comedy roles will be seen the favorites, Patsie Henry and Dixie White, who dispense a brilliant line of Irish repartee, and render the latest musical hits. These two effervescent little comedienne are even better than when last seen here, and their infectious jollity has never failed to please. The Misses Ina Mitchell, Thom Helen, Mazie Hill, Grace McClure, Lola Fox, Majel Gardner and the other versatile young ladies are afforded well chosen roles which they delineate with that likeable enthusiasm of youth which has made them the most popular company on tour.

Specially painted scenery, depicting scenes of the original Tipperary is carried by the Bostonians for this production. Altogether, with these famous girls, in an established play, beautiful costuming, special scenic and lighting effects, "Tipperary Mary" will prove to be the most interesting success that has ever been seen in Kelowna.

The management of the Opera House desires that every one make an especial effort to enjoy this splendid company on Tuesday night. Book seats at Crawford's store.

Towards a Lasting Settlement

Published by George Allen & Unwin, 40, Museum Street, London, W.C. Price 2s. 6d.

I continue to quote from C. L. Dickenson's contribution to the volume entitled: "Towards a Lasting Settlement." After having shown how fear and suspicion among the nations of each other's intentions are potent factors among the causes of war, he says:

"Let us turn now to territory. The appropriation of territory can, as a rule, only be accomplished by war, and usually involves further wars to hold it. And this, of course, is peculiarly true of appropriations of territory in Europe. It may be said, indeed, with substantial truth, that in Europe for centuries past a principal cause of war has been a desire to acquire or recover territory. But in all this there has been nothing 'inevitable.' Annexation is an act of policy, amenable to criticism and reason, and for this policy there are various motives. Leaving out of account wars that have been waged by nations to recover the control of a territory that has been filched from them and confining ourselves to aggressive annexation, we may group the motives under the headings of power, defence and trade.

"Of these, the most common has been the love of power, on the part not of peoples, but of their rulers. And that motive still persists among the Jingles of all nations. The present war, for instance, is believed by many people, to have been caused solely by the ambition of Germany to annex territory. However that may be, there have been put forward recently by influential circles in Germany demands for the annexation in east and west of an area of 80,000 square miles, and a population of 16,000,000 of recalcitrant non-Germans. Is there anything 'inevitable' about such demands or about the interminable conflicts that must ensue from the attempts to make them good? Clearly not. No 'vital interest' of Germany dictates them.

Such annexations, nevertheless, it may be urged, are rendered necessary by considerations of defence; to round off a frontier, to acquire strategic points, to secure the command of home waters. Observe the circular nature of such arguments. You postulate the 'inevitability' of a future war; and in order to secure yourself, you take the very measures that provoke it. Thus the Germans annexed Alsace-Lorraine, largely for strategic reasons, with the result that they had a permanent menace on their western frontier.

"But I shall be told I am omitting the one important consideration. It is not mere lust for conquest that drives modern nations to annex territory, nor is it necessities of defense; it is the 'vital interests' of markets and trade. Germany, for instance, desires to incorporate Belgium and Holland for the sake of outlets for her trade. What! But already German trade passes freely up the Sheldt and the Rhine! It is not necessary to 'own' a country in order to send trade through it. No! But if the country be not your own it may always interfere with your trade! It may! The fear is legitimate. But on what is it based? On no 'natural necessity,' but on human policy. These situations arise because nations believe that they can benefit themselves by hampering other peoples' trade, and that it is right to do so. But they are mistaken in thinking that they so benefit themselves; and if they were not mistaken they would still be wrong so to act; wrong, in the first place, because it is mean and base to try to make other people poor in order that you, yourself, may be rich; wrong, because, even if that be not admitted, the policy in question is an underlying cause of war; and no supposed economic advantage could balance the material and spiritual evils of war. Wherever it is claimed that economic necessity compels annexation, the answer is 'free trade' or 'free transit.' That is the alternative to annexation and consequent war. Who would not really choose it, once the issue were fairly and squarely put? The same argument applies to the competition of nations for markets and concessions in undeveloped countries. Such competition is one of the root causes of the friction that leads to war. The Morocco crisis illustrates the point. Let the nations in all such cases not only formally adopt but loyally carry out the principle of the 'open door'; let them determine to co-operate or to compete openly and honourably in all such areas; and the danger of war from that cause is conjured. Human policy, not natural necessity, governs the whole issue.

"I have said enough, I hope, to indicate to the reader how baseless is the assumption that the rivalry of nations 'inevitably' brings them into war. It will be as the nations choose and will it be. Behind wars is not a blind necessity, but causes definite, ascertainable and removable. I have tried here to indicate some of the principal of these. The first and most obvious of these is the armed peace itself; and I have suggested to the reader that this cause alone would be sufficient. If we could get rid of armaments and fear we might rid of war."

The undefended frontier between Canada and the United States and the absence of fear between these countries might be pointed to as an object lesson for the world.

But in fact it seems idle to hope that nations will discard armaments until they feel security. For that reason in this book the problem of armaments is not separately and prominently attacked. The attempt rather is made to show how security might be attained. Given that, disarmament would follow. Security, however, can only be attained by international agreement; and international agreement requires the international mind. For that reason I have dwelt upon that aspect of nationalism which makes it the enemy of internationalism and that form of patriotism which expresses itself in antagonism to other nations. That there is a truer nationalism and a finer patriotism I not only admit—I maintain and insist. But that kind is not only opposed to, it demands international organization. That the growing democracy now coming into the control of affairs should understand this from the beginning; that it should not be misled by false doctrines; that it should come with a fresh and free mind to the consideration of these great issues; that it should develop an international control of diplomacy, based upon national control in each country—that is the condition of a durable peace. The aim is neither chimerical nor utopian. But it is opposed by very powerful forces. Some of these are traditions and impulses strong in us all; some are false opinions and false ideals; some are the machinations of interested cliques desiring to perpetuate strife that they may fish in the troubled waters. There is only one that works for peace, that human reason, which is also human charity. With that white sword alone can we prevail. Will the people seize and wield it? Upon the answer to that question depends the fate of the world."
